SOVIET IRRITANT

Demands in Regard to Straits Impossible in Eyes of Western Europe.

[By Associated Press.]
Lansing, Turkey and Europe
apparently have drifted so far apart
on the great issues of the Near East conference that the pessimists have a fruitful field for unhappy prognos-tics of a complete collapse of the negotiations which the assumption of war in southeastern Europe.
Such a culmination of the conference discussions could easily be argued as a possibility, but any such argument based on a reasonable hypothesis would leave out the fact that Europe needs peace and that Turkey has constantly proclaimed her need for building up international relations in acquiring capital to develop her immense resources.
The Turks are insisting that the European powers should be the first to set forth their desires in the Dardanelles problem because the straits, after all, belong to Turkey and the Turks should be master of their own house.
The nationalist delegates reiterate their conciliatory intentions.
Although the entente nations and the United States have not publicly stated their views, Russia's proposal for the exclusion of foreign warships from the straits, which seems to correspond to the Turkish position, undoubtedly would not be acceptable.
It is almost certain the powers will insist on the right of free passage for war craft, although they may perhaps be willing to restrict tonnage.

MIRIAM WEST IS READY TO FACE WINTER IN RUSSIA

MIRIAM WEST.

When Miriam West, of Milton, who is now in Russia carrying out addresses on the need for Russian relief under the auspices of the Friends society, went out to feed and look after the Russians in the Volga region
last winter, she dressed up for the occasion. Here she is shown in the garments of the better class of Russian peasant, heavy coat, fur lined boots and cap. Miss West worked with other relief forces in the worst part of the famine district of Russia.

EVANSTON MAN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL FOR LUN-
ACY QUIZ.

CASES DISMISSED

Failure of Five Juries to Reach Verdict, Basis of State's Motion.

[By Associated Press.]
Los Angeles.—Arthur C. Burch, Evanson, Ill., tried three times for the murder of J. B. Kennedy, was in the psychiatric ward of the county hospital Tuesday awaiting an insane verdict Thursday before the Los Angeles county lunacy commission.
He was taken there Monday night
from the county jail, after the dismissing of the indictment charging him and Mrs. Mary Burch, Oshkosh, also of Evanson, with the murder of his former sweetheart and after the filing of insanity proceedings against him by his chief counsel, Paul Schach.

Eight months of trials.
Meantime, it was said, Mrs. Burch light and the guest, for a short time at least, at the residence of one of the jail matrons, to whose home she was escorted last night. She declined to discuss her plans for the future.

The state's motion for dismissal of charges against the pair was based on the fact that five juries had been unable to reach a verdict.
The case had been tried for eight months of trials—actual time—the impeding of six juries, comprising 18 regular and substitute jurors.

FUNERAL RITES FOR AL. SCHALLER HELD

ALBERT SCHALLER.

Funeral services for Albert Schaller,
prominent Janesville business man and golfer, who died suddenly Sunday morning, were held at 1:30
p. m. Tuesday, at the home, 1113
Mineral Point avenue, Rev. T. G.
Burlingame of the Baptist church officiating, and the Kiwanis club quartet sang.
Mr. Schaller was a member of the Kiwanis club, which attended in a body,
as did the Western Star lodge, No. 14,
and the Kiwanis club quartet sang.
Burial-bearers were: Edward P. Wilcox, Frank H. Jackson, Fred S. Sheldon and Arthur J. Harris, all of this city; Arvid J. Burker, Chicago; and Fred Young, Madison.

Other out-of-town people present
at the services were: Mr. and Mrs.
John Shearer, Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alms, Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. George Brownell, Chicago; and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nelson, Madison.
President Oscar Nelson, of the Kiwanis club, paid a high tribute to his weekly bulletin to Mr. Schaller.
This is the first death since the organization in 1921.

WOMEN, EQUAL IN LAW, MUST TAKE RESPONSIBILITY

STATE SUPREME COURT
DECISION UPHOLDS
JUDGE FRITZ.

DEBT INVOLVED

Does Not Eliminate Sex as Classification in General Welfare Laws, However.

[By Associated Press.]
Madison.—Women, married and unmarried, now the equals of men before the law in Wisconsin, must bear the responsibility of their own privileges granted by the women's rights bill enacted in 1921, the Wisconsin supreme court decided Tuesday.

It held a woman liable in her separate property and business, when she endorses a note of her husband incurring financial liability for him.
The court in its decision affirmed
the ruling of Judge Fritz of the Milwaukee circuit court that Amelia John of Milwaukee, is liable for the debt of her husband incurred by an $8,000 note on the First National bank of that city, which was countersigned by John.

Sex Still Classification.

Justice Rosenberry, writing the opinion, held, however, that recent legislation giving equality of right and privilege to both sexes before the law "does not and should not strike down sex as a basis of classification in the enactment of laws relating to the health, morals and general welfare of the people."

The court decided that the disability of a woman as common law
to make contracts now done away with by the Wisconsin statute, was not a special protection or privilege which she enjoyed for the general welfare. Under the common law, the opinion said, the rights of women were subordinate to those of her husband, not for her protection
but for his benefit.

It is not even contended here
that the legislation under consideration in any way violates any provision of the constitution. Justice Rosenberry wrote, "It is clearly within the legislative field."

May Be Enforced.

Concluding the opinion said: "The disabilities which occasioned the common law intervention, and protection of the contract of a woman now exist and the liabilities of married women, contractual or otherwise, may be enforced as similar laws are enforced against men."

It is not the full responsibility contractor so that she may not be liable for the importunities of her husband
there is nothing in the constitution
to prevent a limitation of that right.
Justice Rosenberry said.

The Wisconsin supreme court did not hand down a decision in the case started by the executors of the will of Charles McIntosh, Milwaukee.

Against the county clerk of Milwaukee,
the executors are attacking the constitutionality of the teachers retirement and insurance law enacted by the 1921 legislature. Decision on the validity of the Milwaukee zoning ordinance
also was withheld.

Pufahl Is Given Three-Year Term

WINTER IN FIRST
REAL ONSLAUGHT
OVER NORTHWEST

Chicago.—Winter Tuesday made its first determined onslaught of the season, spreading a trail of zero temperatures through the northwest.

While practically all of Montana,
Minnesota and North Dakota were experiencing sudden downward jumps in the thermometer, St. Paul and immediate vicinity were enjoying a compatively mild temperature.
Throughout the Mississippi valley
state the breath of winter was manifest in a biting wind that sent the mercury scurrying toward the zero mark. Weather forecasts indicated this wave would spread into the lower lake region.

Pufahl's arrest was caused by two women, who saw the defendant depart from a railroad station with a 4-year old girl. One woman followed the two to a thicket along the river bank known as the "jungle," while the other called the police.
Pufahl through his first attorney J.
C. McWilliams, secured a change in venue from municipal to circuit court. The district attorney, S. G.
Dunwiddie, explained the offense to the court.

With but three exceptions all of the 51 jury cases on the present case, which the circuit court will hear later, have been disposed of by the court. The majority of the actions were settled. Juries were drawn for the remaining cases. The alleged breach of contract case between the Federal National Bank and the General Motors will be tried January 17 and the $75,000 alligation of affections case of James W. Westby against A. E. Munroe will start December 13.

The court case calendar will be called next Friday by Judge Grimm.

MAY USE 2 HALLS FOR CHARITY BALL

Terpsichorean Hall to Be Thrown Open if Crowd Is Too Large.

Arrangements for caring for one of the largest dance crowds ever gathered here have been completed by the committee of Elks in charge of the first annual Charity ball, to be held Tuesday night at the Armorium. Music will start at nine o'clock, and those who wish to dance should get there early, as by 11 o'clock the hall will probably be crowded to capacity.

If the crowd grows too large Terpsichorean hall across the street, through the courtesy of its owner, Norman C. Phelps, will be thrown open to handle the overflow
and an orchestra secured to play
there. Four orchestras are to play during the course of the evening,
making a total of 20 musicians.
Dancing will continue until one o'clock. Decorations are elaborate, and the hall will be put in perfect condition. Both women and men are to wear informal dress. Tickets can still be secured at a special price, about $2 per couple, or can be purchased at the door for the same amount preceding and during the dance.

Free State Is Dominion; Healy Named

[By Associated Press.]
London.—King George Tuesday
gave royal sanction to the Irish free state, and the British empire.
Official announcement was made of the appointment of Timothy Healy
as first governor general of the Irish free state.

Mrs. Phillips Escapes Jail

[By Associated Press.]
Los Angeles.—Clara Phillips climbed out of a window in the women's section of the county jail and escaped early Tuesday. She was under a sentence of 18 months to live imprisonment after conviction for the murder of Albert Meadows.
She was held in the jail pending
formulation of an appeal.

With the aid of several steel saws,
her escape was effected at 2 a. m.
Monday. Arriving at the White House, she expressed that she had been aided by other inmates. Bars were sawed through and, after crawling out the window, she dropped to the roof of an adjoining building, climbed down the fire escape and escaped.

The escape was not discovered by jail authorities for several hours.
The matron, in making rounds, saw the bed in Mrs. Phillips' cell vacant, discovered the sawed bars and notified the jailer.

HARDING FAILS TO DELIVER MESSAGE

Breaks Precedent as Short Session of Congress Gets Under Way.

[By Associated Press.]
Washington.—President Harding broke a precedent Tuesday by permitting the second day of the new session of congress to pass without delivering his annual message reporting on the state of the union, and outlining the administration's recommendation for legislation.

It was said at the white house that no date had been fixed for the president's appearance before the senate and house but that he expected to be able to complete his message in time to deliver it before the end of the week.

There is no provision of law requiring that the president report to congress at the beginning of the annual short session but the custom of the making of the report not later than the second day of each session has been established in the history of the nation, and senate and house attaches said, they could not recall when it had ever been broken.

Farmer Killed by Bull; Son Injured

[By Associated Press.]
Rhineclaire.—Charles Peterson, 55, an Onondaga county farmer living near here, was killed Tuesday by a bull he was tending. His 20-year old son also was injured by the animal and may die. The bull suddenly became vicious and the men were unable to control him. He knocked both down and trampled on them. A neighbor rushing out with a gun, shot the animal.

Another Canadian Church Is Burned

Oka, Quebec.—The St. Stephen's church, seminary and priest's residence were destroyed by fire early Tuesday. The great monastery of the Trappist monks, nearby, was not touched. This is the fifth fire in Catholic institutions in the dominion in the last few weeks.

PANSIES BLOOM IN 4TH WARD GARDEN

Pansies picked from the garden of Mrs. Albert Vanher, 327 Cherry street, made decorations for the Thanksgiving day table, Thursday.
Mrs. Vanher has been careful in protecting her flowers by covering them and has been able to pick a bouquet nearly every day.

Spanking Urged as Curative Agency in Raising of Citizens.

New York.—An "old fashioned, spanking" week, with careful proportioned spanking was recommended as an aid in raising future citizens, in an address by Mrs. Smith Alford at the 18th annual meeting of the Big Brothers and Sisters.

CRIME OF MIRACLE CREEK PARALLELED IN NEW MYSTERY?

BULLET HOLE FOUND IN SKULL; BONES THOSE
OF MAN.

DISCOUNT SUICIDE

Body Believed Brought to Lonely Spot by Perpetrators
After Killing.

[By Associated Press.]
Jefferson.—What may turn out to be another "Miracle Creek" mystery is believed to have been partially revealed in the finding of the skeleton of the banks of Scuppernon river, Heberson township, Saturday night, as told by the Gazette Monday.
Investigation and examination by Sheriff A. M. Woolf and Dr. J.
L. Daniels revealed a bullet hole in the skull and the fact that the skeleton was that of a man, not a woman,
as first believed.

Dr. Daniels based the latter finding on the shape of the pelvic bone.
On the right side of the skull was found a hole, believed to have been made by a .22 calibre revolver bullet. From the position of the hole it is concluded that the bullet was fired from the rear, towards the front part of the skull.

A thorough search of the woods nearby and the banks of river up and down stream has failed to uncover any clothing which might lead to identification. Authorities believe the body was that of a man, was either carried away or thrown into the waters and floated downstream.
Authorities have practically abandoned the suicide theory for they said: "When a man would be so disgraced with life as to work his way through the maze of swamp land to kill himself on the lonely banks of the creek."

Fourth Annual Meeting Farm Bureau Federation to be Held in Chicago.

COMING EVENTS FOR BADGER FARMERS

Dec. 2-3—International Livestock Exposition and Grain and Hay Show, Chicago.

Dec. 11-14—Fourth Annual Meeting of Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, Chicago.

Dec. 14-20—Wisconsin Products Exposition, Milwaukee.

Jan. 10-12—Convention of Wisconsin Cheesemakers' Association, Milwaukee.

Jan. 10-12—Convention and Exposition of Wisconsin Horticultural Society, Madison.

Jan. 20-Feb. 3—Wisconsin Farmers' Course, Madison.

Jan. 20-Feb. 3—Annual Livestock and Poultry Show, Madison.

Wisconsin's agriculture will be given the limelight at the series of meetings scheduled for the winter season.

Exhibitors of meat producing stock will vie with breeders from many states at the International Livestock Exposition ending Dec. 3.

Wisconsin's blue grass pasture and feed lots will compete for honors with the best other states and provinces have to offer.

delegation of upperslows and graduates students at the university guided by G. C. Humphrey and J. G. Fuller, will invade the exposition. A flock of sheep led by Frank Kitchin, veteran university shepherd, will parade in the exhibition.

Joe Delwiche have been entered in the livestock competition by the university.

The college stock judging team composed of five regular members and an alternate is to compete with judging teams from many of the leading agricultural colleges in America in the judging contest.

At the same time, Wisconsin hays and grains will be in the running for high honors at the "International Grain and Hay Show." Early reports show that many Badger growers will be in the rings with classy exhibits.

Last year Badger hays "copied" many of the most coveted honors. More than 1,500 Wisconsin farmers have been solicited for entries this year.

The Windy City will also be host to the fourth annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Officers of the national association who will play a prominent part in the program are: J. R. Howard, Iowa, president; O. W. Bradford, Ohio, vice president; J. W. Coverdale, Iowa, secretary; C. E. Gunzel, Nebraska, treasurer.

Products Exposition

Wisconsin has set the pace again in establishing an annual products exposition. The largest show of the public in the Milwaukee auditorium from December 14-20. Manufacturers and agriculturists alike will display their wares to acquaint the public with Wisconsin quality.

Cheesemakers Gather

Several hundred cheesemakers and dealers from Wisconsin and other states are expected in Milwaukee January 10-12 for the 12th annual meeting of the Wisconsin Cheesemakers' association. Secretary J. L. Sammis of Madison announces a three-day program of lectures, important in manufacture and marketing of cheese.

Competition will be keen for the mammoth list of over 200 prizes offered for the best exhibits. A joint session with the national cheesemakers' association will be held the last night of the convention.

Horticulturists Meet

The 53rd annual meeting of the Wisconsin Horticultural society will take place in the state capital at Madison January 10-12, according to Frederic Cranehead, secretary.

The biggest fruit display ever staged by the society will be shown. Heavy entries will combine to fill all the corridors of the state capital.

A new feature in the meeting this year will be a special in the program. Two separate programs will be given, one for amateurs and one for professional growers. The programs include a full discussion of the fruit orchard, the farm beautiful, and the whole horticultural field.

Farmers' Week

When the week of January 29 to February 3 rolls around, all roads will lead to the Agricultural Hall in Madison where the annual farmers' and homemakers' conference will be held. Merchandising "The Farmers' Way Out," has been adopted as the slogan. The preliminary program anticipates several speakers of national and international reputation.

During the week of the farmers' course, many of the state livestock breeders' associations will convene in Madison for their annual meetings.

The breeders' groups that are planning gatherings are: Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, Brown Swiss, Ayrshire, Red Friesian, Shorthorn, Hereford, the Wisconsin Horse Breeders' association and the Wisconsin Sheep Breeders' association.

Heaven Fleet Wilson

Tribe to Wisconsin as a bee state has just been paid by beekeepers in all parts of the nation in electing H. P. Wilson, head of the entomology department of the University of Wisconsin, president of the American Honey Producers' League.

Although ranking fifth in honey production, Wisconsin's bee industry is fast approaching the $2,000,000 a year mark and is becoming widely known for its progress.

"The Department of Economic Entomology of the University of Wisconsin, through its Beekeeping Section, has made its mark in American agricultural history," says the Beekeepers' Item, a national beekeeping magazine published in Texas. "H. P. Wilson has been for years identified with it, and through his zeal and activity has been able to make it of inestimable value and service to the state. Not only so, but beekeepers everywhere are benefiting by the work done by Wilson and his co-laborers in the Badger state."

The American Honey Producers' League is a national organization which concerns itself with issues affecting the promotion of the bee industry.

Cooper Pledges Aid Toward New Addition to P. O.

Prospects for an addition to the present postoffice building here, much too small to handle the ever-increasing business, grew brighter and were given a great boost Sunday when Congressman H. A. Cooper conferred with Postmaster J. J. Cunningham of this city. The latter has, much corresponding in an effort to secure a $175,000 appropriation from congress for the work, but thinks he will accomplish much more by personal contact.

After making a tour of the building Sunday and being told of the amount of business now done, and how it has increased, Congressman Cooper expressed himself as convinced that the need is urgent for an addition, which can be built in the rear of the building, on the vacant lot now used for driveways. He pledged all his assistance in bringing the matter before the proper officials at Washington.

3,000 POUNDS OF POTATOES DONATED

Myers Theater's Novel Matinee Nets Much Food for City's Needy.

More than 600 school-children of Janesville carried a ton and a half of potatoes to the Myers theater, Monday afternoon, in five pound packages, and thereby gained admittance to a special showing of "The Old Homestead" playing here for four days. The potatoes, filling more than 20 barrels, will be used by the Salvation Army to feed the needy of Janesville.

Adults, at the regular afternoon performance and in the evening, enjoyed the stirring scenes of the picture no less than did the applauding and cheering children at 4:15.

Special decorations of the theater gave one the atmosphere of the picture even before the theater is entered. The lobby and foyer is an old homestead in itself. The canopy over the sidewalk looks like a lean-to. The lobby is filled with corn-stalks and pumpkins, and to gain admittance, each person must pull the old barn door. When this is done a farm scene confronts one. On one side is a pony and a heifer and, on the other are sheep and pigs. Corn-stalks and hay are also profuse here, and the grunts of the pigs and "baas" of the sheep make the first scenes of the picture the more realistic.

Taken from Denham, Thompson's play, the picture closely follows the original play, on the stage for 30 years. Even more people will see the picture, with thousands now witnessing it daily.

PLATTEVILLE MAN SHOOTS BLACK BEAR

Platteville,—Gordon Broadbeck and Wesley Edwards returned home Sunday with a large black bear, weighing 300 pounds, killed near Amerig, Wis.

Say it with Fuller Brushes, Phone 335. Advertising.

Mrs. F. E. Weirick, 126 Clark street, is spending several days in Chicago.

Joshua Whitcomb is the chief feature of the picture, and it is done in a most able manner by Theodore Roberts, making a lovable old character. All other characters are well played by Harrison Ford, Fritz Ridgway, George Fawcett, Ethel Vales and many others. It is the best Paramount picture of the fall.

A quartet sings a number of old-fashioned songs, and a comedy completes the program.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS

Start Christmas Campaign.—The Christmas campaign for careful and stout wrapping of parcels, for legible writing of addresses and for prompt mailing has been started by the local postoffice. One especially attractive slogan being used is "If You Care a Rap, Wrap with Care." These campaigns in the last few years have eliminated much of the Christmas

Even rush, which is still too great for the convenience of postal employees.

Conventions Are Successful.—The conventions held in large cities throughout the country for the benefit of postal employees, are great success wherever they have been held so far. The plan in one of the new administration, and consists of dividing the country into districts, with a convention in the leading city of each. The one for this territory will be at Madison, the tentative date for which has been set as July 1.

His Car Stolen.—It was R. F. Rashid, not R. J. Rashid, whose car was reported stolen here Sunday night. It has not been recovered.

Neither can a store succeed on "spotty" performance. The true test of a store's value to the public is found in occasional outbursts of underpricing, but in consistent, day-to-day presentation of a sound money's worth.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS CERTAIN

Much to be Done Aside from 60 Days Work on Big Budget Issue.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Three months from today the congress which has just convened must finish its work or an extra session will be called. Judging by the rate of speed at which every congress must be run, relatively little can be accomplished in three months but this will not prevent a concentration of effort on vital measures. What, however, can be done and what will be done are two different things.

The public may expect an attempt to do many things, an attempt at least to satisfy the restless mood of the electorate, its craving for something positive, something constructive. President Harding has already a message full of recommendations. He knows congress can't act on them all even if it acquiesces in his point of view. But the states must be made executive must be made clear. So, though he knows he cannot get through congress much of anything in the three crowded months ahead, he realizes it is his duty to lead, to take the initiative and to begin a drive for the legislation that must round out his presidential term.

Extra Session Certain. An extra session is of course inevitable. The only question is how long after March 4 it can be delayed. It is inconceivable that with so many problems untouched and so many unfinished business congress should have a vacation from March 4 next to the following December. For more than a decade congress has been in almost continuous session—rarely away from the national capital more than a month at a time.

First of all, Mr. Harding wants the shipping problem solved. He puts this measure above all others in order of importance. But the so-called short session of congress from December 10 to March has the usual number of appropriation bills to pass, which occupy at least 10 days and often more. These bills cannot be rushed through nowadays as quickly as in the old days when the entire budget of the federal government was a billion dollars or less. With a four billion dollar budget and a demand for economy, due to the widespread drain of the income tax law on the voters' pocketbook, appropriation bills must be minutely examined. There is a bigger problem, however, than the mere balancing of a budget this year. It's to find an extra $500,000,000 to pay the deficit which has arisen for the fiscal year beginning next June. Additional taxes would not be popular, yet revenues must be increased somehow.

Deficit His Problem. The treasury department hasn't announced any plan by which it hopes to wipe out that big deficit. Probably it will be tempted to remain silent so as to influence congress to economize still further. But naturally there will be a demand that the executive branch of the government demonstrate how the deficit is to be met.

One of the principal reasons for the deficit is the shrinkage of tax receipts which is partially due to the poor business conditions of the country part of this year and the preceding year. But business conditions are better now than they have been and the truth is there should be a noticeable increase in revenues. Nobody, of course, can tell how much money will be received from these sources, nobody can estimate either how much will be derived from the new tariff bill though its sponsors are not claiming that very much will be brought in that way.

Tax Law Amendments. Some amendments to the tax law are certain to be proposed in the extra session which will follow after March 4. President Harding himself has announced that he isn't satisfied with the present law. The radicals who want the excess profits taxes restored are eager for an opportunity to have the whole tax question reopened. But the session which follows after March will be close on the heels of a presidential campaign and from a political viewpoint it will be essential for the administration to advocate a downward revision of the tax laws rather than increases.

The soldier bonus movement is by no means dead and will continue to press for attention especially if a revision of the tax laws is proposed. On top of this is the demand of the farmer for a new agricultural credit system, something upon which congress could well devote all of the next three months without feeling that it had really scratched the surface of the problem.

Seek Farmer Support. The manifest unrest of the rural communities, reflected in so many districts where republicans, hostile to the administration, were nominated and elected, has made a deep impression on the administration here. Both parties are trying to prove themselves the friend of the farmer. So it all comes down to this: The short session of congress, which begins this week, will have the shipping and farm problems thrust upon it together with the inevitable struggle to reduce expenditures and find ways and means to pay the deficit. If it can even reach conclusion and vote on all three issues congress will have done an unprecedented amount of work in three months.

“Aggie” Students Study Marketing

Agricultural students in the senior class of the Janesville high school are now studying marketing as outlined in the book by Theodore Martin, University of Wisconsin.

Test classes are now being held by L. B. Jackson, instructor, to select the members of the judging team to represent the school in the state contest.

The achievements since the reorganization of the Rock county association stamps the organization as one of the most progressive in Wisconsin. There are now 118 paid-up members and interest aroused in the development of Holsteins until an increased and more active membership is expected for next year.

The outstanding achievements of the association resulting directly for organization work are as follows:

The association took a leading part in the building of the new Rock county livestock pavilion. It fostered the best Holstein junior club in Wisconsin, the winners of which were winners in the state fair, the Junior Livestock exposition and the national dairy show. No less than 10 herds have been changed over from grades to either all or part purebreds as the result of this club.

Held two successful sales and aided buyers in locating considerable surplus stock on the farms.

Developed a county association spirit that has aided materially in the improvement of the Holstein herds in the county through better and tested cattle.

Participated in a pure-bred, sire campaign.

Sent out the first Holstein county show herd in Rock's history, which won many ribbons and great credit at the fairs.

The 1922 program was discussed during the business meeting. More cow testing associations, the county-wide test for bovine tuberculosis eradication, keeping Holstein herds unbranded and making a record of the records were some of the recommendations made by the speakers.

SUGAR PLANT HAS 2,300-TON OUTPUT

Production Here This Year Out 50 Percent by Scarcity of Beets.

Small production of sugar beets all through the country this year, cut down production of the Rock County sugar company to 20 percent of the amount made last year, officials say now at the close of the shortest campaign in several years. It lasted but four weeks. A total of 4,000,000 pounds was put out, and although that figure seems to be large, it is small compared to former years' productions.

Out of the 350 men working there a little more than a week ago, but is again, they being occupied now with cleaning up the building and storing and shipping the supply. There will be gone in a few weeks. When there will be but the four officials and bookkeepers who work the year around.

Industrial conditions, the market for sugar, and the weather will be the factors of determining next year's production, officials say.

Parker to Spend $300,000 in '23 for Advertising

In newspapers, magazines, billboards and window displays, the Parker Pen company of this city, during 1923, will spend $300,000 for advertising, according to George S. Parker.

"This year," said Mr. Parker, "we have been busier than ever before, and have done a peak business, which I attribute somewhat to advertising. We have also done considerable extra business which has largely increased the sales."

In regard to sale of the Duofold pen, Mr. Parker believes that only the surface has been scratched.

"We have an excellent product and the only thing remaining to do is to let people know about it," he said.

The payroll of the company, now larger than it has ever been, is between $2,000 and $4,000 a week. Christmas advertising is making it necessary to do a great deal of overtime work.

The latest pen novelty the company produces is a fountain pen, which is still far ahead of the competition, being the iroving pens. They are sent to Chicago where a guild consisting of graduates of the Chicago Art Institute paint them in 13 different designs. A sliding shell protects them and gives them long wear. They are the hand-somest pens the company has yet put out.

One of the young women who do this work has paid a month's rent on the red brick house at the corner of Court and South Bluff, adjoining the factory, which has recently been purchased by the company and are considering making headquarters here, to do work on the pens and other work.

The gold pen production at the factory increases monthly, although it is still far ahead of the competition. This is a new departure for the company, as the pens formerly had been purchased ready made. Thirty additional ladies and the other necessary managers for his work are being installed.

Lakota Home Ass'n Elects Officers

Officers of the newly incorporated Lakota Home association, the holding company formed by the Lakota club, have been elected by the five directors as follows: Roger C. Cunningham, president; George J. Bennett, vice-president; and Arthur Kierie, secretary-treasurer. The other directors are William P. Langdon and William Brockhaus.

Officers of the club proper will be elected at the next regular meeting, Dec. 18, to succeed the following: Reno Koop, president; Frank Kennedy, vice-president; Harold J. Sullivan, secretary; and Oscar Jahn, treasurer. Bylaws for the new corporation will be approved at a meeting on the same date.

At the semi-monthly meeting, Monday night, the Lakota club voted a contribution of $10 toward the Elks' Charity ball.

It was also decided to have the club enter the second round of the city cribbage tournament starting after the holidays. The Lakota club took first place in the last tournament. Louis McCarthy, William Sullivan and Harold Sullivan were the winners as a committee to select a 16-man team.

Dr. W. L. Johnson passed the cigars in honor of a baby girl recently welcomed into his home.

WILL NAME SOLOISTS FOR MESSIAH CONCERT

Milton.—Names of the three soloists who will assist the Milton Choral union and Janesville community chorus in giving Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," will be announced late this week, Prof. J. H. Stricker, conductor of both organizations, said Monday.

A picked group of musicians from the Milton college symphony orchestra will accompany the combined choruses at both concerts. The joint chorus will give "The Messiah" in the college gymnasium Dec. 18, and in the Congregational church, Janesville, Dec. 19.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH SENDS GREETINGS

Official Board Wishes Success to Venture of Bolting Members.

At a special meeting, Monday night, the official board of the First Christian church passed a resolution to send greetings to the newly organized Second Christian church with the request that the list of those who are to become charter members be furnished in order that their names may be dropped from the roll of the first church.

The following letter was addressed to "J. L. Sadler, Organizer."

"Greetings to the Second Christian Church, Wisconsin."

"We the members of the church board of the First Christian church and minister do hereby welcome you and your members to the Second Christian church in this city. This city is large and plenty of room for you to work in, and it is our wish that you will be content and satisfied to build a work that will honor the name Jesus. We want the best of good will between the two churches and think it will be better for the great cause to have another church representing the great things that we stand for in this city."

In order that we may revise our membership roll of this church we ask that you mail to us at once the list of all people that are about to become charter members. This is very important as we are starting a new church year and we desire to cancel these names as members of this church so we will not over lap in our work."

"The official board of the First Christian church, Wisconsin, will be glad to have you and your members to the Second Christian church in this city. "The Prisoner of Zenda" Triumph of Silent Drama

To the spirit and essence of "The Prisoner of Zenda" could be put in a few words, that word would be "Romance." It is romance so pure that one seems to be carried into the kingdom of Ruritania. There to watch duels and fights for the throne between half-brothers. Beautiful princesses, coronations, dragons, castles, drawbridges and kidnappings make the story of gripping interest. The ending is the same as in the book and the fact that it was unchanged is one of the best features of the picture.

Lewis Stone as the king and the man impersonates him, does the best work of his career. Well-fitted for the part, he plays with a bravado that is well in harmony with the spirit of the whole production.

Alice Terry, who played the role of the queen, was in "The Four Horsemen" and one sees only too little of her. Her gown is beautiful, and she wears them with such a majestic grace that it seems she could play the part of a queen.

Barbara La Marr, exquisitely gowned, also adds to the beauty of the production, while Ramon Navarro, as the villainous Rupert of Hentzau, is too good to be forgotten. He plays the part of the villain with a grace that is well in harmony with the spirit of the whole production.

The picture is a triumph of the silent drama, and it is well in harmony with the spirit of the whole production.

$166,000 SAVED IN CHRISTMAS CLUBS

4,000 Checks Being Prepared—Total Is $30,000 Higher Than Last Year.

Janesville people, as a result of their savings' this past year, will have $166,400 from Christmas Savings clubs alone to spend for Christmas. A great deal of it, bankers say, is put into the bank as a regular deposit, while some is used to start a club of higher denomination. Banks are making their usual attractive offers for the 1923 clubs for Christmas gifts, and are making one or several deposits on either end.

The amount saved by approximately 4,000 people, is more than $10,000 higher than last year's saved through clubs in all five banks—$133,000. The last mentioned amount was about the same as that for the year before, when each preceding year had showed a steady increase, starting with the first clubs in 1912.

Here Is the Story In Black and White

We are packed, jammed and crowded on both floors with high grade merchandise, in fact the best that brains and money could buy. When we bought our fall and winter merchandise some time ago, we told our manufacturers and jobbers that we had a big December treat for the people of Janesville and vicinity. We told them that we were going to give the people the greatest sale we have ever attempted. They immediately saw our point and realizing that it would make greater customers of our firm, sold us goods at rock bottom prices. There is no exaggeration or misrepresentation in connection with our firm as you well know. We have our reputation to maintain, not to gain. We will cheerfully exchange any goods for any reason whatsoever or refund your money on any purchase during this sale the same as always. Come expecting the biggest bargains you ever saw. You'll not be disappointed.

The Wall Flower

By MARION RUBINCAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Pandora Nicholson is so painfully shy and self-conscious that it is almost agony for her to go into a room in which there are strangers. She believes her self to be one of the stupidest people alive—her Aunt Maude frequently told her so. She cannot enter into the youthful society of North City. She cannot enter into their boisterous merry-making.

She lives with her father, Jim Nicholson, as a poor relation in the home of Jim's prosperous brother, Peter, his wife, Aunt Maude, and their daughter, Gladys. Unexpectedly, she makes one friend, Morton Newberry, a shy and studious lad whom Gladys dislikes, and returns one day from a walk to find Gladys in a furious temper.

Chapter 12

When Gladys became genuinely cross, the sulkingness lasted for days and even her mother dreaded it. But as a rule she was really most good natured.

"Dora, it isn't fair to Martin to go with him looking like that. Go up and put on that satin of mine, you can pin it into the waist with safety pins and put my pink girdle over it. It will look all right."

Dora was ready to obey. But the bolt man and both Jesse and Morton arrived. It was the custom for each man to take his lady separately to the dance, and to bring her home the same way. Gladys, forgetting Dora completely, went off with Jesse.

And Dora faced Morton alone in the hall.

"I oughtn't to go," she burst out impulsively. "I look so awful—really, you'll be ashamed to be seen with me."

He surveyed her with the generously impulsive glance of the man to whom all women's clothes look exactly alike.

"What's the matter with you," he asked. "You look all right. Come along."

But he felt instinctively that she was unhappy—women were often billy about such things as dresses, he knew, and Dora was probably poor. So he was particularly nice to her all evening. And for the first time, she had every dance taken. He found her to be a good dancer, and he found her to take his place. And he did not ask Gladys.

Gladys came wandering over to them once.

"Isn't it hot?" she began. "I think I'll sit out this next—unless some one asks me." Almost as though he were answering, Morton took Dora's hand and wrote his name on her fan.

"Gladys sitting there alone."

Wednesday—A Furious Lady.

Sunday afternoons are always festive occasions in the Nicholson home. Usually the festivity takes the form of a walk into the country, or rowing or skating in the pleasure and picnic park that every place boasts. Gladys always had to have one to half a dozen boys call for her, and often a few girls as well. She liked large crowds, and was generous enough to like other girls in them. As she always had so much masculine attention as she could possibly want, she never so far had been jealous.

But lately she had shown so much preference for Jesse that several would-be admirers had been discouraged and dropped off. By Tuesday afternoon the little town crier, Gladys and Jesse, and vague wonderers were murmured among gossiping old ladies.

Jesse was ill—the rest of the boys in their endeavor to give him a clean field with his lady had made up their minds—and Gladys for the first time knew what neglect was like.

To make it more acute, Pandora, who stayed home so much, it seemed the only natural thing—was the one to have a caller. By the end of the day, Gladys had worked herself into a fine rage.

Dora did not see Morton again until the night of the dance. It was not an occasion to be looked forward to with any zest, owing to her cousin's temper, and the fact that she had only the faded pink silk to wear. Gladys promised to give her a better dress but, being out of humor, punished her by withholding the gift until after the dance. She herself was getting something quite new, a flame color silk with a great deal of lace and a pair of billowed far trousers from her already somewhat generous hips.

Her good temper was restored when the girls stood together in the hall ready to leave. Beside her gorgeousness, Dora faded into complete insignificance.

"How awful your dress looks by mine," Gladys remarked. "Why didn't you remind me of that satin in pink?"

"I did you? You look awful in pink!"

This was not calculated to make Pandora feel any more comfortable.

She would be the shabbiest person present, she knew that, but she was used to that. She would spend the evening sitting against the wall, now and then one of the charitable among the men would dance with her, and the girls who sat out would talk to her when there was no one more interesting to talk with. But she didn't mind this; she was used to that too.

Gladys pulled a black velvet cape over her shoulders and rearranged a large imitation tortoise shell Spanish comb in her hair. For this occasion she had raised her pompadour even higher, and piled her hair aided by a secretly purchased "switch" into an immense knot at the back of her head, with the comb thrust through it.

Aunt Maude came to admire. "That color sets you off so well," she approved. Gladys twisted about smiling coquettishly at herself in the glass.

In a burst of generosity she exclaimed:

"Dear God," prayed golden-haired little Willie, "please watch over my mamma."

And then he added as an afterthought, "And I dunno as it would do any harm to keep an eye on the old man, too."

A chap who was hiring a car for use over the week-end of the house party, after eliminating a lot of details in the transaction, inquired how many the car held.

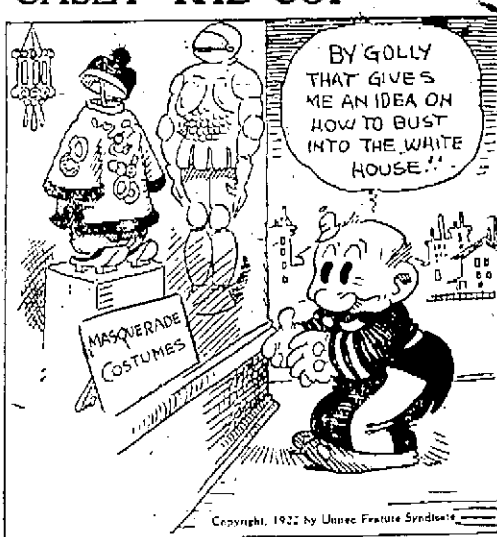

The native stroked his beard and scratched his head.

Dinner Stories

One night during the war two destroyers were proceeding south in the Irish Sea, returning to their base at Queenstown. Drayton was making 18 knots when Winslow passed at 22 knots. As they passed, the skipper of the Winslow sang out to the captain of the Drayton, "Doug, bet you $25 we beat you to Queenstown."

"During the night a heavy blow came up from the south and Winslow, being one of the 1,600-ton type, had

BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

Last week I was talking about a diet having a series of special diets for patrons suffering from various ailments which can be compared by foods. Think of the boon this is to the man or woman who must live about a great deal at hotels, or who suffers from a certain trouble and does not know how to cut to improve his health.

HEART AND HOME

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man in high school and would like what advice you can give me. I have a girl friend with whom I correspond. She likes me very much I suppose by the letters she writes, but still she treats me as though she were ashamed of me. When we meet I always speak and sometimes she speaks and sometimes she doesn't. I have asked her not to be so friendly with other boys, but she says she will do as she pleases. Do you suppose she likes me at all? I admire her greatly and yet she treats me as if I were her enemy. How can I gain her affection?

IGNORANT HERMAN OF HORTON.

Girls who are in high school are sometimes slow to admit even to themselves that they are growing up. They avoid anything that would give the appearance that they have passed out of childhood. This may seem strange, but I know for a fact that when girls do not speak to boys when they are with some one else, simply because they feel embarrassed. If the girl you like consents to go to school parties with you, you may be sure she likes you. Do not ask her to give up other boys, because she is too young to go with you and no one else.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 22 years old and have been married 14 months. We have a little baby girl four months old. My husband is very good to me, but he has had a lot of hard luck since we have been married and so we have had to move home with mother. I have two sisters and a brother who are living at home too. The house is small and crowded now, but we enjoy being together.

My husband's mother is a widow and lives all alone in a house she owns. She wants us to come and live with her. Before we were married she made us very comfortable and she did not like us and she did everything she could to stand in the way of our marriage. Since we have been married I have tried to forget the way she used to act and I have lived her in my home and gone to her, but even yet I can feel that she doesn't like me but has to put up with me because I am her daughter-in-law.

She thinks it is terrible for us to stay where we are so crowded when we could have plenty of room with her. She has convinced my husband of this, but he says I can do as I please and go or stay. I don't want to go, but do you think I ought to go for my husband's sake?

It would be a great mistake for you to go under the circumstances. You and your mother-in-law have patched up old sores and can get along amicably if you do not try living together. But an affair like once you lived in the home of your mother-in-law she would make you unhappy. Since you are happy where you are, stay there.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens. Some time ago I was going with a high school boy a few years my senior. He always listened to his boy friends before he did me, and so they lived in the home of some girl every time he came to my town. He quit me but now he wants to come back.

Would you advise me to let him come back?

If the young man dropped you because he believed things that were true about you in spite of your denial, I would not advise you to let him come back. But if the things were true and he wants to come in spite of that, let him if you want him to come back.

CRIME IS BARRED IN JAPANESE NEWSPAPERS

(By Associated Press.)

Tokio.—Japan's police, in investigating crime, believed that the publication of facts may assist the criminal to escape. Several cases have occurred recently where the newspapers have published the facts about murders only to be told after it had all been in print that no further reference should be made to the crime. Newspapers which in such circumstances are closely watched, have come out with blank columns, the police having at the last moment ordered news of the event to be suppressed.

There is no "Just As Good"

Don't accept substitutes—don't buy baking powder that is supposed to be just as good as Calumet—don't think that a big can at a low price means a real saving. Use

CALUMET

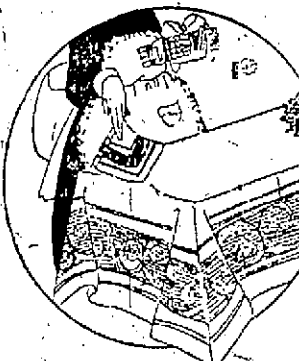

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Avoid disappointments. Millions of housewives are using Calumet because of its dependability. They know that the bakings will always turn out just right. Pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, will always be perfectly raised, light and wholesome if you use Calumet, the real economical leavener.

Calumet sales are 2 1/2 times as much as that of any other brand—always call for it.

PUSSY COMEBACK IN SECOND HALF BIG REVELATION

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Freeport, Ill.—Rushing their opponents off their feet as much as they had been scuttled in the early half, the Janesville Black Cats showed this Saturday night that basketball is either team's game up to the last minute. The pussies lost, but they dropped the contest by the close count of 39 to 32.

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

FORWARD PASSING, at its best, is risky business in the gridiron game. It requires steady interference from the line in the perfection of a pass to protect the passer. It demands coolness, accuracy and courage upon the part of the man throwing the ball. It necessitates that the ends and the backfield men eligible must get into the clear as quickly as possible.

IF MADE, the forward pass is one of the greatest and quickest ground games. To a large extent, it is hard to stop under good conditions. When used as a surprise play when the enemy is not expecting it, the forward route can catch a team entirely off its guard.

FOR A LONG TIME, the east, where the game of football was developed after its invention from England, was against its use. It really is borrowed from basketball. The west put it into use as a strategic move some time after A. L. Hornsby, now of St. Paul, organized the Chicago club in 1875. But the east is losing its objections and finding the pass a valuable asset.

THERE ARE times when nature interferes and makes the aerial game well-nigh impossible. These times are when it is raining, snowing or sleeting, or when the ground is wet and muddy. On such occasions, no matter how big a hand a man may have, it is difficult for him to get a grip on the football and throw with sufficient degree of accuracy.

NOW ALONG comes another innovation. Quarterback Covington, of a certain college here, has found that a certain mixture of tar coating his passing hand enables him to toss the ball under any condition. What will the guardians of the rules say to that? Football code is against artificial means of winning. The man so equipped has it over the enemy for they have nothing to help them intercept the pass. Will it mean 22 men on the field with tar-coated hands? Or will the rule makers put a halt to the growth of the practice?

BRINGING UP FATHER

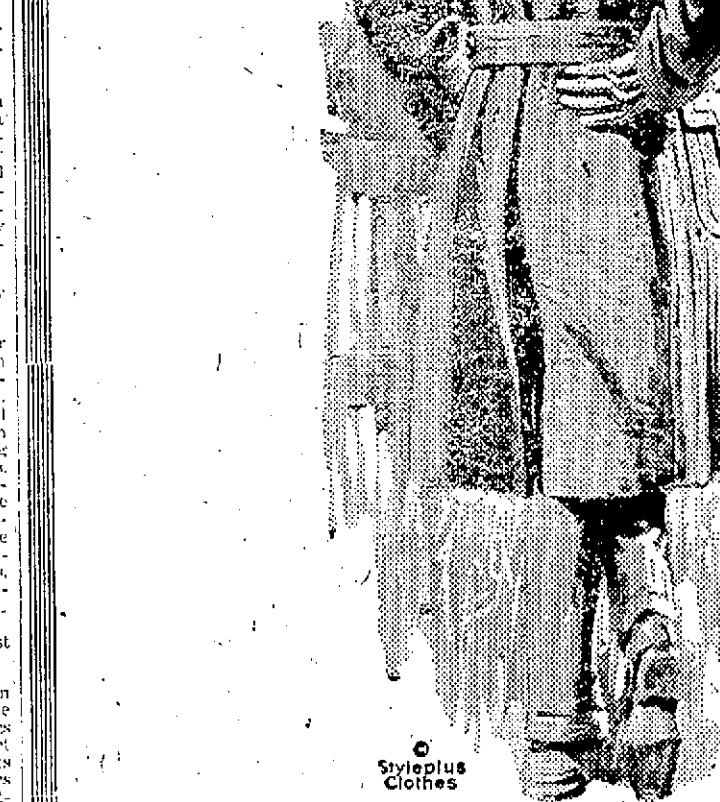

Whitewater Normal Sees Big 1923 Grid Outlook

Whitewater — The 1922 football season just brought to a close was the most successful for Whitewater normal since 1915. Had the Purple scored the extra point after touchdown in the Oshkosh game, they would have been undisputed champions.

Loss Only Three — In looking to the future, next season holds great promise. Only three men, Capt. McMillan, R. E. Tholack, and H. B. Johnson, of this year's team will be lost to the 1923 machine. The letter men who will return for next year are: Butler and Swartz; tackle, Bostad; guards, Peters and Hull; center, Ingalls; half-back, Dyer, Dabner; full-back, Warren, Gharitty; quarter-back, Flennberg.

There will be a wealth of first string possibilities in the 1922 substitutes. Among those who expect to return are: Lippert, Grob, Turner, Zuelke, Rohrer, Kitzkie, M. Schwaner, Schultz, Larson, Sundt, Thompson and Olson. Most of the latter were playing their first year of normal football and gave excellent accounts of themselves. These men, together with the usual influx of high school stars, will make an interesting competition for the regulars and second string men. It is necessary to have a good second team in order to produce a good first string team.

Siki is Champion Liar Says Fighter's Manager

Paris — The declaration that Battling Siki is a much greater liar than he ever was a fighter, and that no one can take away his title as champion heavyweight liar of the world, was the only comment which he made on the recognition of his defeat in the boxing ring.

Evansville Has All Stars Back

Evansville — The local high school basketball squad held their first regular practice in the new gym here Monday, when a dozen candidates, reported.

Every one of last year's star team is back and with the other material available, a better team than last season is expected. The veterans include Capt. Cain and Roberts, forwards Baker and James, guards and Earmann, center, Funk and Libby. First string stars are practicing.

The work Monday was centered on the short pass game which will be used by the locals again this season. The complete schedule will be announced later.

SENIORS WIN BASKET MEET AT JEFF HIGH

Jefferson — The interclass basketball tournament at the local high school was won by the seniors, who took every game played. The juniors finished second with the sophomores third. The seniors defeated the juniors in a hot game, 15-11. The seniors trimmed the freshmen, 15-8.

Injuries Damage Milton Cagers

Milton — Local basketball fans will get their first glimpse of the Milton college team Thursday night, when the Brown and Blue representatives meet the R. F. B. of Janesville in a pre-season game here.

Milton's first intercollegiate contest will be with Marquette university in Milwaukee, next Tuesday. Football injuries incurred in the Thanksgiving day game with the Wisconsin Miners have proved a serious handicap to the basketball squad. C. Hill, who severely injured an ankle in that contest, is barely able to limp about the campus with the aid of a cane. Seniors also injured an ankle, though not so severely. Chadsey and R. Hill are receiving chiropractic treatment for spinal injuries incurred Thanksgiving day.
